

Personality Politics: Does it matter in an election?

How much does a politician's personality matter?

We are going to watch a clip from Channel News, Personality politics: Does it matter in an election?, where Krishman Guru-Murthy looks at the role that character and relatability of party leaders can play in an election.

Task: As we watch (03:38-11:41), prepare your ideas for a class debate: The personality of a party Leader does not matter in an election

Arguments for the statement Support your arguments with... <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ideas from the clip we have watched your own knowledge 	Arguments against the statement Support your arguments with... <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ideas from the clip we have watched your own knowledge

Key Vocabulary I want to use:

Thoughts I have during the discussion:

Sentence stems to introduce your argument:

Based on what we have watched/heard, it is clear to me that..... because.....

Given our knowledge that..... surely, we must believe that.....

Sentence stems to counter your opposition's argument:

Although I understand it is important to remember.....

Whilst (name) makes an interesting/valid point, it seems to me that.....